Coping with School

Working with a friend helped me

Believe in yourself

Admitting you find something hard is the first step in trying to improve

All I do is Mess Up!

I just felt everything could be better

Take control.
In diffs... get help

Few of us are good at everything but everyone is good at something. Some people find school hard and it's awful if you are trying your best but seem to be getting nowhere. Don't put yourself under too much pressure. Don't judge yourself for making mistakes. No one is perfect. Everyone makes mistakes and that's how we learn.

Coping with School

When working it's best to avoid rooms in the house where other people are and don't open your books in front of the TV!

Find a quiet space away from the rest of your family - try your bedroom. If you share with brothers or sisters and space is hard to find plan to do your work in the school library, at a close relative's house or a friend's.

Of course it doesn't matter where you work or who you work with if you are not working properly. Plan, Do and Review.

THINK ABOUT

- Looking over your notes from class.
- Catching up on notes you miss.
- Making new notes while you work.
- Study guides might help.
- Keep your coursework up to date.

But if you are finding school work hard or you feel you can't cope it is important that you ask for help. Asking for help is important whether from a friend, parent or teacher. Check these out.
